

Why did I choose Simpson as my Mentor? Prof. Jintae Kim on Oct 30, 2001
Area	His Strengths and Examples to follow
Integrity	He was always truthful in his life. His rebaptism and resignation from 13'th St. Presb. Church and New York Presbytery.
	He did not seek his own financial gain: He refused to receive his salary when Chestnut St. Presb. Church began building project. He financed his 1'st mission magazine (Gospel in all Lands) with Christmas gift money. He did not draw salary when Gospel Tabernacle started.
	Humility: No boasting on his healing experience or his talents. Refused to accept his honorary Doctoral degree.
Talents	Preacher and pastor far excellence: Thorough preparation, Eloquence, Biblical foundation...
	"Simpson made sure the services were anything but tiring to the public. Music played a key role. The pastor kept his sermons short and refused appeals for money. Also lacking: any put-downs of other churches or groups."(52-53)
	Evangelist far excellence
	Poet & Musician: His poems and songs.
	Professor: Nyack Missionary College
	Productive writer: Mission magazine, Christ in the Bible series, Fourfold Gospel...
Vision-oriented ministry	Magnetic personality: Drew high-caliber people from all backgrounds.
	Promoter of events: 2 Alliances, Mission conventions, Friday meetings...
	One clear vision: "Divine Plan"
Passion & Action	A Dynamic body of New Testament-type churches giving preeminence to Jesus Christ in personal experience (Holiness) and universal witness (Mission). Primary purpose: Function of evangelism.
	He used all his talents and resources for achieving this one goal with utmost passion and zeal. His dream and Heart for the lost souls!
Spiritual Experience	His direct encounter with the risen Lord in his experiences of sanctification and healing.
Faith	Finance was the last priority. "Just as in business anything that was worth succeeding always found people enough to sustain it; so in the work of God, if anything was worth doing, God would see that it was supported."
	Everything starts with prayer and reliance on Christ.
Lasting Legacy	He left lasting legacy of his mission movement.
